

Investment Brief — 2026-06-04

Coverage Period: 2026-05-28 to 2026-06-04

Market Snapshot

Market	Level	7D Change	Trend
BTC	$63,700	-11.0%	Down
ETH	$1,776	-6.0%	Down
Total Crypto Cap	$2.40T	-8.7%	Down
BTC Dominance	56.0%	—	Flat
S&P 500	7,554	Mixed (record 7,609 Wed, then -0.7%)	Flat/Up
NASDAQ	27,094	Mixed (record Wed, then -0.9%)	Flat/Up
DXY	99.4	+1.0% (month)	Up
10Y Yield	4.48%	+8 bps	Up

Key macro developments: Crypto suffered its sharpest weekly correction of 2026 — BTC down ~11% with US spot ETFs losing $1.42B (third-worst week on record). Equities hit all-time highs mid-week (S&P 500 touched 7,609, NASDAQ 27,094+) before retreating Thursday on US-Iran military escalation and rising oil prices. Fed holds at 3.50-3.75% for a third consecutive meeting; June 16-17 FOMC priced at 96% no-change — but market has sharply repriced year-end hike probability to 85% (from 60% last week) on strong labor data and sticky inflation (~3.8% CPI).

Upcoming catalysts:

- June 11: PPI release (BLS)
- June 16-17: FOMC meeting (blackout starts ~June 7; no Fed speeches expected after that)
- NEAR Protocol v2.13 mainnet upgrade
- Multiple June TGEs: GRVT, Cambria, Arcium
- Ongoing BTC ETF weekly flow data — three consecutive weeks of outflows

Quinn Thompson — @qthomp

Source: Scouting the Tape — May 30, 2026 — Published 2026-05-30

Key Thesis: Volatility is structurally suppressed into U.S. midterms — the Trump administration has strong incentive to keep financial conditions loose. A sector rotation away from semiconductors/AI is setting up "in coming weeks" as crowding hits historic highs. The macro backdrop is stagflationary: consumer stress deepening, real wages negative, K-shaped economy worsening. BTC has underperformed gold and the S&P 500 since the ETF launch and is now showing whale-level distribution signals.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Bearish	Short-to-medium-term	Since ETF launch (Jan 2024), BTC has underperformed gold and S&P. $1.26B single-block IBIT sale mirrors whale selling that preceded 2024 weakness. STRC near worst drawdown since launch.
STRC	Bearish	Near-term	Expects 50bps dividend raise (vs usual 25bps) to stabilize the complex. Calls the STRC pitch misleading to retail. "Continued lower highs across the Strategy equity complex."
Semiconductors / AI	Bearish (relative)	Short-to-medium-term	Most crowded trade per BofA FMS. Semicap leveraged ETF AUM doubled in <2 months. Mag7 option skew gone negative for first time since Oct 2025. "Upside panic is back — tread carefully."
US Equities	Cautious / late-cycle	Medium-term	Stagflation building. Consumer stress deepening. Boomer electorate prevents reform until 2032+. Still floated by vol suppression into midterms.
USD/JPY	Yen strength bias	Short-to-medium-term	USDJPY at heavily-defended 160 level; BOJ intervention having minimal impact. Inclined to position for yen strength. Invalidation: close above 161-162.
Oil / Energy	Neutral-to-bearish (price)	Near-term	Trump has 170M barrels of SPR to suppress prices pre-midterms. Iran deal primarily economically motivated — keep Strait of Hormuz open.

Notable Levels / Targets: USDJPY long at ~160, invalidation above 161-162. STRC: expects 50bps dividend raise. Avoid AI/semis at current crowding. Iran deal = politically framed but economically compelled.

Insomniac — @insomniacxbt

Source: X/Twitter — <https://x.com/insomniacxbt> — 2026-05-28 to 2026-06-04

Key Thesis: "Dex season" is underway — rotate out of BTC and into DEX-focused alts (HYPE, LIT, ASTER, NEAR, VVV). MicroStrategy/MSTR complex is the "ultimate top signal" for this cycle. BTC spot orderbooks are "ultra thin across exchanges — very weird behavior." Largely ignoring BTC price action in favor of alt selection.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
HYPE	Bullish	Short-term	"Beautiful structure." Consolidating above trend. Target 83 flagged. One of the most interesting DEX plays alongside LIT and ASTER.
BTC	Neutral-cautious	Short-term	Spot orderbooks "ultra thin" — abnormal behavior. Comfortable ignoring BTC to focus on alts.
NEAR	Bullish	Short-term	"Good coins with the spot bid still" alongside HYPE and VVV.
VVV	Bullish	Short-term	Included in spot bid basket.
LIT / ASTER	Bullish	Short-term	DEX season theme; "most interesting" DEX plays.
MSTR ecosystem	Bearish	—	Called it "the ultimate top signal" for this cycle.

Notable Levels / Targets: HYPE target 83. BNB watching alongside ASTER.

Bob Loukas — @BobLoukas

Source: X/Twitter — <https://x.com/BobLoukas> — Published 2026-06-03/04 | bitcoin.live: 401 error this week

Key Thesis: The 4-year cycle model just made its first BTC buy in 3.5 years — 10 BTC at $65,000 — moving the model portfolio to ~60% BTC. The bounce from lows looks corrective, not a new bull leg, but the price zone is "good enough" to begin accumulating spot. Full target zone is $38K-$58K Fib range. Q4 2026 remains the cycle bottom window.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Cautiously Bullish (accumulating)	Long-term (Q4 2026 bottom window)	First model buy in 3.5 years: 10 BTC at $65K. Deeper flush still "fairly unlikely but possible." Full target accumulation zone: $38K-$58K Fib range.

Notable Levels / Targets: Bought 10 BTC at $65,000. Full accumulation zone: $38K-$58K. Q4 2026 = cycle bottom. Will publish a full 4-year cycle video.

TraderMayne — @Tradermayne

Source: YouTube "Stocks at All-Time Highs. Crypto in the RED" — 2026-06-03 | Discord #tm-charts | X/Twitter

Key Thesis: BTC is playing out the classic 4-year cycle bear market. Multiple weekly closes through the 79% Fib makes $59K "a certainty." Plans to fade near-term rallies and wait for a trendline break before deploying capital. Calls this "the last bear market of my trading career."

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Bearish near-term	Q4 2026 bottom	$59K "certainty" after 79% Fib break. Expects a blow-up event (Saylor/Three Arrows equivalent) as "icing on the cake." Discord: "Bounce just high enough for people to get excited, then the real flush."

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
HYPE	Bullish (relative)	—	"Bullish coins remain bullish." Charted breakout and retest structure. One of the few assets holding up.
ETH	Bearish	Near-term	Down more than Saylor's BTC position. Casualty of broader decline.
SOL	Bearish	Near-term	Covered in stream as casualty of the decline.
US Equities	Bullish (relative)	—	At ATH retest approaching; will be floated at least until the SpaceX IPO.

Notable Levels / Targets: $59K BTC target. No spot entries until trendline break. Fade all near-term rallies.

ColdBloodedShiller — @ColdBloodShill

Source: X/Twitter | Discord #spot-crypto, #leverage-trades — Published 2026-05-28 to 2026-06-04 | No YouTube videos this week

Key Thesis: Downtrend → consolidation → continuation is the most likely market structure. Not interested in bottom-catching. Actively hunting short-side setups while selectively positioning in niche speculative plays. Markets are "awful" but "plenty of opportunity" for active traders.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
SOL	Bearish	Near-term	Fresh lows, lowest daily close in 4 months, back to 2023 price levels. "A lot of thin air below" if current zone fails.
CARDS	Bullish	Near-term	+15% off lows toward "cleaner breakout move"; targeting $100M market cap.
Leverage position (unnamed)	Holding (+90%)	—	In leverage channel; "not a lot to do, just letting it run."

Notable Levels / Targets: SOL — key zone approaching; no long interest. No YouTube videos this week.

Mercury — @TraderMercury

Source: X/Twitter | Discord #daily-market-update — Published 2026-05-28 to 2026-06-04 | No YouTube videos this week

Key Thesis: BTC lost the only inflection point that justified a larger rally since November 2025 (12H 200MA / 2-month range structure). Back on the sideline for BTC. HYPE is the first coin in history to move into the top-10 market cap solo while BTC maintains a high-timeframe downtrend — it should be traded independently, not correlated to BTC.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Bearish (sidelined)	Near-term trend lower	Lost the 12H 200MA / 2-month range. The only bullish argument since Nov 2025 is gone. Closed long for small loss. If equities pull back even slightly, BTC sells off harder given blatant underperformance.
HYPE	Strongly Bullish	Ongoing (price discovery)	"You have not seen this before. Ever." Top-10 solo rally while BTC is in a downtrend. Traders managing HYPE based on BTC are making a mistake.
Alts (BTC-correlated)	Bearish	—	Higher beta assets that underperform their alpha asset become "leveraged ways to lose money." POPCAT cited as example.

Notable Levels / Targets: Discord doomer scenario (May 28): loss of 12H 200MA confirms downtrend resumed. That scenario has now triggered.

DonAlt — @DonAlt

Source: YouTube "The Bitcoin Level That Decides the Next Few Months" — 2026-05-29 | X/Twitter

Key Thesis: BTC is sandwiched between $71K monthly support (must-hold) and $83K resistance. The setup is "not bad, not great." He'll add significantly only on a weekly close above $71K. If $71K fails, BTC falls back inside the old range with no bullish structure remaining. The Saylor narrative is a sentiment weight, not a mechanical driver.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Neutral-to-cautiously bullish (conditional)	Near-term (weekly close is key)	Went to resistance (~$82-83K), rejected. Now testing $71K monthly support (highest monthly close of prior range). Would buy properly on weekly close above $71K. Below $71K = back inside old range, bullish thesis breaks.
Crypto sentiment	Bearish	—	Years of memecoin promotion burned newcomers and destroyed trust. Saylor shift from "never sells" to "what if he sells more" is the bearish catalyst — sentiment, not mechanics.

Notable Levels / Targets: $71K must-hold; $83K resistance; $60K secondary support. Will add "properly" only on weekly close above $71K.

Forward Guidance — @ForwardGuidance

Source: YouTube "Why This Economy Refuses To Break" — 2026-06-03 | YouTube Weekly Roundup — 2026-05-29

Key Thesis: The AI capex buildout (~$1T) combined with persistent government deficits creates a wall of money that makes recession nearly impossible — the first pro-cyclical productivity boom since the 1990s. On crypto: AI is doing to crypto what Silicon Valley tech did to gold in the early 2010s — productive high-growth equity narratives are structurally pulling capital out of alternative stores of value.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
US Equities	Bullish (structural)	Medium-term	AI capex, fiscal deficits, and pro-cyclical productivity boom simultaneously supporting earnings. Manufacturing PMI at 54. Corporate profit margins hitting new ceilings.
AI / Tech equities	Bullish long-term, near-term caution	Medium-term	Near-term positioning extreme (VIX sub-16, calls/puts heavily skewed). Earnings expansion justified but timing risk.
Crypto / BTC	Bearish (structural)	Medium-to-long-term	AI is to crypto in 2026 what tech was to gold in 2010s — losing the capital allocation battle. Crypto is now "the lower-volatility, drifting boring market."
Fed Policy	No hike expected	Near-term	"Wartime policy" — managing yields, supporting markets. Negative real rates here to stay despite Taylor Rule suggesting otherwise.
Inflation	Re-accelerating	—	Above Fed target for 60+ months. Energy price shock risk from Iran conflict.

Notable Levels / Targets: Manufacturing PMI at 54. AI capex buildout ~$1T. Google issued $80B equity raise for AI buildout. Near-term positioning dangerously euphoric.

Loma — @LomahCrypto

Source: X/Twitter | Discord #market-thoughts | Discord #50k-side-quest — Published 2026-05-31 to 2026-06-04

Key Thesis: Active short bias with precise technical setups and defined-risk trade alerts. Currently short HYPE — directly contradicting Mercury and Insomniac's bullish calls. Also ran a successful long→short flip on ZEC within 48 hours. Views current crypto pain as a cycle event rather than something to fight.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
HYPE	Bearish (active short)	H2 (2-hour chart)	SHORT: Entry $71.50-73.50 \	Stop: H2 close above $75 \	Size: $150K \	Target: $59-61. "Recent headlines are now priced in for HYPE. Rotation of capital is possible."
ZEC	Two-sided (recently flipped short)	H2	Long entry $542-555 → flip to short at $615-625. Short stop: H2 close above $635. Target: $540-555.

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
Crypto	Cautious / skeptical	—	Tweets highlight systemic issues in the space. Bear-posting suggests he views current pain as a bottoming process.

Notable Levels / Targets: HYPE short target $59-61, stop above $75. ZEC short target $540-555, stop above $635. KEY CONTRADICTION: Loma short HYPE vs. Mercury calling HYPE an unprecedented standalone outperformer.

Myles G Investments — @MylesGinvest

Source: X/Twitter | YouTube — multiple videos 2026-05-29 to 2026-06-03

Key Thesis: The current BTC sell-off IS the bottom or very near it. Record liquidation event, negative funding rates for the first time during this dump, a large buy wall below price, and 10 consecutive days of ETF outflows approaching historical endpoint all signal an imminent short squeeze. "BTC 75k soon." Clarity Act (Senate vote expected this month), ceasefire, and anticipated rate cuts are the macro catalysts for the next leg up.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Bullish (bottom call)	Days to weeks	Biggest liquidation event since February. Funding just flipped negative for first time during this dump. "Trapped shorts will bring relief." 10 consecutive ETF outflows historically mark bottoms. Target: $75K.
XRP	Bullish	Weeks-to-medium-term	Whales accumulating at range lows. Held range low and bounced 6% during sell-off, outperforming BTC. Clarity Act catalyst. Long trigger: break/hold above $1.33-1.36. Targets: $1.42 → $1.50 → $1.80-2.00. Stop below $1.24-1.25.
XLM	Bullish (don't chase)	—	DTCC integrating tokenized securities with Stellar network — major institutional catalyst. Surged 82%. Wait for pullback to $0.21-0.26.
HBAR	Bullish	Near-term	Dell secured $9B government contract with HBAR as key DLT partner. Breaking out for first time since Jan/Feb. "Expects massive rotation into HBAR."
ETH	Bullish	—	Brief mention; no specific targets.
Oil	Bearish	—	Moves inverse to BTC/crypto. Trump will push oil down to enable rate cuts — a bullish crypto catalyst.

Notable Levels / Targets: BTC target $75K; confirmation = 4H close above $74K. XRP long trigger $1.33-1.36, stop below $1.24-1.25, targets $1.42-2.00. XLM entry zone $0.21-0.26.

CredibleCrypto — @CredibleCrypto

Source: X/Twitter — 2026-05-30 to 2026-06-04 | No YouTube videos this week

Key Thesis: This is the largest liquidation event since 2021, yet BTC holding above the $60K lows is "actually quite impressive." Watching for general market reversal confirmation before committing direction. Uses 2017 as the alt season template: the major alt season happened AFTER BTC peaked, dropped 50%, found a floor, and bounced — don't chase alts until that bounce is confirmed.

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Neutral-cautiously bullish (watching)	Medium-term	Largest liquidation since 2021; BTC above $60K "actually quite impressive." 126K was local top; most bearish scenario = 126K is THE cycle top. Waiting for reversal confirmation.
ETH	Cautiously bearish	Short-term	ETH "took range lows before heading for supply overhead" — unfortunate sequence. Less confident about significant rejection from overhead supply now that lows are swept.
HBAR	Bullish (HTF buy zone)	—	"Essentially AT the buy zone" on HTF. May need dip to LTF range lows first.

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
CVX	Bullish (accumulation complete)	Medium-term	All higher TF range lows cleaned up — all downside targets tagged. Focus shifts to reclaiming HTF range.
TRAC	Bullish (relative strength)	—	Held up best among his holdings during the entire BTC drop. TRAC/BTC pairing looks strong on higher TF.
XRP	Neutral (monitoring range)	Short-term	Both highs and lows of range will be taken; doesn't think XRP is ready for the "big" move yet.
BTC Dominance	Bearish on dominance	—	May be at or near cycle high — a decline opens the door for alt season.
TradFi / SPX	Bearish long-term	Long-term	"Blow-off top that has been years in the making." Will go higher before eventual top.

Notable Levels / Targets: CVX: all downside targets hit — accumulation zone. Do NOT chase alt season yet — wait for BTC floor + bounce first.

Benjamin Cowen — @BenjaminCowen (X: @intocryptoverse)

Source: X/Twitter — 2026-06-01 to 2026-06-04 | YouTube transcripts not accessible this week

Key Thesis: Standard mid-cycle bear phase within the four-year Bitcoin cycle — not the end of crypto. BTC will form a low in June (matching June 2018 and June 2022 patterns), rally in July, then face a deeper SPX-correlated correction later in the year before finding its true cycle bottom (most likely October). "The four-year cycle wins again."

Stance Table:

Asset	Stance	Timeframe	Reasoning
BTC	Bearish near-term / Bullish medium-term	June low → July rally → October ultimate bottom	Mid-cycle bear consistent with midterm year seasonality. Pattern: June low, July rally, late-year SPX drag, October bottom. "The biggest critics of the Four Year Cycle will become the biggest cheerleaders in a few months."
TradFi / SPX	Near-term bullish / Bearish H2 2026	—	Cool-off phase after IPOs will push profits into BTC for next four-year cycle. SPX correction gives BTC its final cycle bottom.

Notable Levels / Targets: No specific price targets shared this week. Framework: June low → July rally → October bottom = next four-year cycle begins. "Our date with destiny is coming in HOT."

Key Themes This Week

- BTC in a cycle bear market — Q4 2026 is the bottom window, not now: The overwhelming cross-tier consensus is that BTC's ~$63-64K range is not the cycle low. TraderMayne, Bob Loukas, and Benjamin Cowen all independently target Q4 2026 as the bottom window. Cowen specifically maps June low → July rally → October ultimate bottom. DonAlt and CredibleCrypto are waiting for confirmation before committing. The bearish camp is numerically dominant; the accumulator camp (Myles G, KillaXBT, Anbessa) is the minority with the contrarian case.
- HYPE is the only cross-tier consensus long — with one high-stakes dissenter: Mercury, Insomniac, Myles G, Pentoshi, Fejau, Bluntz, Smiley, HeadedNine, and TraderMayne all positive on HYPE while BTC craters. The sole dissenter is Loma, who opened an active $150K short (entry $71.50-73.50, target $59-61, stop above $75). This is the week's highest-conviction trader disagreement.
- STRC/MSTR systemic risk gaining cross-trader traction: Quinn Thompson (predicts dividend raise needed), CryptoCondom (doom loop mechanism), Noodles (Alameda/FTX comparison), Mandelbrot, and HeadedNine are all flagging STRC's unsustainable structure as a potential catalyst for broader crypto destabilization. This has moved from individual concern to emerging consensus bearish thesis.
- AI capex structurally pulling capital from crypto to equities: Forward Guidance made the clearest case — AI capex boom plus fiscal deficits equals a wall of money into equities. The crypto/gold analogy from 2010 (tech sucked capital from gold for a decade) is the stated framework. Multiple other traders referenced the equities-vs-crypto divergence as a structural, not cyclical, issue.
- ZEC emerging as a cross-trader opportunity: Bluntz (bullish, quantum-proof narrative), TraderXO (closed short at 660s→530s, now long targeting ATH retest), and Loma (actively traded both sides — knows the levels intimately) all have ZEC on high-priority radar. The quantum-resistant narrative is the new story driver beyond pure technicals.
- Iran/geopolitical escalation as the dominant macro wildcard: US-Iran military escalation mid-week was the proximate cause of the equities reversal from ATHs. Oil implications are central — Quinn Thompson explicitly frames Trump's economic incentive to cut an Iran deal before midterms. IncomeSharks tracks the pullback around June 18 as the gamma squeeze endpoint.

Actionable Takeaways

- HYPE: The key level is $75: The bull vs. bear debate is live. Mercury says HYPE is an unprecedented standalone outperformer to own regardless of BTC. Loma's $150K short has a stop above $75 H2 close — if HYPE can hold above $75, the bull thesis remains structurally intact. A close above $75 would force Loma to cover. A break below $71 confirms the rotation thesis.
- BTC accumulation is starting — but cycle timing says be patient: Bob Loukas (first buy in 3.5 years at $65K), ExitLiqNick (toe at $61.5K), and KillaXBT (aggressive sub-$60K) represent the accumulator camp. DonAlt's $71K weekly close is the clearest near-term confirmation signal for bulls. The majority view remains Q4 2026 as the actual cycle bottom, suggesting better entries may come later. Don't confuse "cheap" with "the bottom."
- ZEC is the most actionable alt setup: Independent bullish attention from Bluntz (quantum narrative), TraderXO (closed short, now targeting 660s+ ATH retest), and Loma (actively traded both sides — knows the levels). If the quantum-resistant narrative catches broader market attention, ZEC has the setup. Key level: 530s is the low; 660s is the resistance/target.

- STRC/MSTR is worth monitoring weekly: Quinn Thompson's 50bps dividend raise prediction (vs. standard 25bps) and the doom loop warnings from CryptoCondom and Noodles suggest this is a potential crypto-market catalyst. If Strategy fails to raise the STRC dividend or if the preferred complex deteriorates further, it could be the "blow-up event" TraderMayne is waiting for to confirm the final leg down.

- Equities positioning: bulls until ~June 18, then risk-off: IncomeSharks specifically called SPY $780 + VIX $14 by June 18 as a gamma squeeze endpoint, after which a meaningful pullback is expected. Forward Guidance and Quinn Thompson both describe current equities positioning as "dangerously euphoric" at the near-term level. Not a crash call — but a signal to avoid adding new long equity exposure above current levels.
